Donna Campbell is a textile artist and has an MA in Art and Design. She has worked for the last 25 years as a Community Artist working with individuals, families, groups and organisations both locally and internationally. She exhibits her own art with local Arts Collective Green Door Studios.

Some of her community projects include work with Asian women in Action Groups in the U.K. designing silk painted appliqué panels, which were exhibited at The V&A Museum. Donna's most recent communal textile piece was inspired by the Grayson Perry Tapestries. It shares a vibrant and confident use of colour and extensive detail to tell the stories of those it was created with, at the local homeless charity Manna House in Kendal. The Tapestries were created using a unique blend of Silk Painting, Appliqué & Embroidery.
