Course Description:

Inspired by grasses, cow parsley, poppies and much more, on this workshop you can create your own bunch of wire seed heads to display in a vase. You will learn to handle different gauges of wire to create a variety of wire drawings using leaves, plants and flowers for observation. Bring along your own photos or plants, as well as taking inspiration from those provided. No previous experience needed.

Judith Brown has been working with wire since 2004, mostly making silver wire jewellery but more recently working on a larger scale to create wire flowers. Her degree in Embroidery means her techniques are influenced by textiles techniques, details and textures. She sells her work through galleries, at contemporary craft events, online and through her studio in Leek, on the edge of the Peak District, where she also runs workshops.
